Divine builds with Drake

By Elle Cecil

As a successful building design business, Drake Design can provide a comprehensive service to assist building your dream home or commercial site, whether you need a draftsperson, architect or building practitioner.

With vast industry experience and expertise, the Drake Design team is passionate about building design and specialises in a wide range of areas. Assisting with projects big or small, Drake Design provides design development, town planning, building plans and construction documents.

One such project that the Drake Design team has finessed is a California bungalow in Carnegie.

With great potential upon purchase but requiring plenty of work, Drake Design worked with clients to envision a home where their young family could grow and flourish.

Allowing natural light to flow through the home's large windows, the high ceilings and hardwood floors are breathtaking to guests visiting the home.

By working on the existing home as lightly as possible, the destruction and demolition of existing structures and materials was kept to a minimum, allowing for a significant reduction in resource waste and the maintenance of the home's original character and heritage.

Successfully linking the past with the present, this beautiful home is aptly named Californian Dreamin', and is a physical representation of the hard work and dedication that Drake Design displays.

The upgrades provided by Drake Design allow the family to live and grow for many years, reducing further future works to the home.
