Advanced Manufacturing and Industry Award Winner:
HANLON INDUSTRIES

A family owned steel fabrication and commercial construction business, Hanlon Industries has been operating for over 20 years in Geelong, and has now extended across New South Wales, Queensland and Western Australia.

Having established a national footprint and a team of over 140 staff, Hanlon Industries is renowned for being one of Australia's largest digital and static billboard manufacturers, and facilitators of functional end-to-end in-house capabilities including concept, design, project management, manufacturing, construction labour and equipment hire.

Having invested heavily in automation for steel processing, Hanlon Industries has improved its efficiency dramatically and now offer a multitude of technical trades and skills including project managers, draftspersons, engineers, electricians, fitters and turners, boilermakers, welders, carpenters, crane operators, riggers, dogmen, laborers and truck drivers.

The company goal is to be the preferred steel fabrication, building and construction partner to a diverse range of industries Australia-wide.

The judges said that this business is a local treasure, crediting the people at Hanlon Industries with its success.

The business takes care of its employees by providing exceptional support and career development opportunities, and acquiring certifications for OHS, quality and environmental management.

The judges on this year's panel are confident that Hanlon Industries is extremely well-deserving of this award.
