Discover a day in the life at Christian College Geelong

Christian College campuses will open their doors on various dates in May, with no booking needed to take a tour, catch a glimpse of a day in the life of the college and ask any questions you may have about the benefits of a Christian college education.

Principal Glen McKeeman says while the college also proudly regards any school day as an open day, where parents can book a personalised tour at any time that suits them, opening campus doors next month provides an opportunity to do that simply by dropping in at the open times on the nominated dates.

"We have always conducted open days in the past and invited parents to come and see firsthand what we do on regular school days –we don't schedule any special activities or presentations on open days – it's about visitors seeing how we run every day," he says.

"In this way, they can witness how our college operates by observing teachers and students interacting in learning environments as they do in the normal course of events.

"Because of our approach to open days over the years, this year, we are really promoting the idea that people are welcome any time to come and see a normal school day in progress – so every day is open day.

"But we also want to open our doors to give parents an opportunity to visit on a day in May without having to book a tour and make an appointment with a head or deputy head of campus. It also gives some of our students the opportunity to lead tours."
